1. In December 1954, the directorate of Kabelwerk Koeppenick ordered that machines used in the drilling and polishing of diamond drawing dies be taken from the machine storage pool and mounted in the Adlershof plant of the enterprise. These machines were to be used for training personnel in the preparation of 0.05mm diameter diamond drawing dies.
2. The directorate halted delivery to Berliner Gluehlampenwerk of raw diamonds suitable for 0.05mm diameter drawing dies. Up to this time, the requests of this enterprise had a high priority.
3. In January 1955, the directorate of Kabelwerk Koeppenick ordered that machines be put in readiness for the drilling and polishing of diamond drawing dies of 0.035mm diameter. The directorate ordered this in case Kabelwerk Koeppenick is required to produce nickel wire of such dimensions in greater quantities.
4. As of early February 1955, no orders for the production of such wire had been received.
